Who we are

We are an award winning, innovative wearable startup based in Frankfurt and Zurich. TRACKTICS enables every football player and team to track, analyse and improve performance on the football pitch. We have developed a wearable device and created an easily accessible but powerful app interface for our data analytics. For the first time, players and coaches have easy access to metrics like distance covered, number of sprints, and also tactical heatmaps. For better practice planning, player management and boosted motivation.

We got into European Space Agency's Incubation Program and the highly selective EuropeanPioneers Accelerator. Well-known Business Angels from the football space are part of our team and we are delivering first products to excited football teams.
